Vedette Directory, UTAH.

Area, 100, 382 square miles—Population 80,000.

The Capital, Great Salt Lake City, (Population, 17,000,) situate on the great highway westward, in the grand centre of the golden circle comprising Colorado, Montana, Idaho, Nevada, New Mexico and Arizona. The City is one of the most beautiful in the Union, and the largest between St. Louis and Sacramento. Its scenery of mountains is majestic, and its view of islands and Lake is peerlessly picturesque.

The City proper is a square of three miles each side, and contains 260 blocks, of 10 acres each, (each divided into 8 lots,) and 41 public squares. Its level streets, running due east and west, and north and south, are 128 feet wide, with shade trees along either sidewalk, and living streams of water flowing by both sides of every street, to irrigate the fruit trees and gardens.

The Territory is divided into twenty counties, the towns of which range from 6,000 to 600 population.

STRENGTH OF MATERIALS.—It is a remarkable fact that one of the most abundant materials in nature—iron—is the strongest of all known substances. Made into the best steel, a rod one fourth of an inch in diameter will sustain 6,000 pounds before breaking; soft steel, 7,000 pounds; iron wire, 6,000 pounds; bar iron, 4,000 pounds; inferior bar iron 3,000 pounds; cast iron, 1,000 to 3,000 pounds; copper wire, 3,000 pounds; silver, 2,000; gold, 2,500; tin, 300; cast zinc, 160; sheet zinc, 1,000; cast lead, 55; milled lead, 200 pound.

Of woods, box and locust, the same size, will hold 1,200 pounds; the toughest ash, 1,000; elm, 100; beech, cedar, white oak, pitch pine, 600 pounds; chesnut and soft maple, 650; poplar, 400. Wood which will bear a very heavy weight for a minute or two will break with two thirds of the force acting for a long time.

A rod of iron is about ten times as strong as a hempen cord. A rope of an inch in diameter will bear two and a half tons, but in practice it is not best to subject it to a strain of more than one ton. Half an inch in diameter, the strength will be one quarter as much; a quarter of an inch, one sixteenth, and so on.

THE HAIR.—Stiff hair is sometimes the sign of obstinacy, sleek locks denote patience; a curly head is always accompanied by wit and love of pleasure. Prematurely gray hair denotes misanthropy, continued suffering, whether physical or moral, excessive labor or dissipation. With regard to those abundant locks which time is powerless to bleach, they are the badge of an even disposion and a midiocre intellect.

MUSICAL cigar stands. ... knob at the top of the octagon case opens eight doors, displaying the cigars, and at the same time sets a music box running. So cunningly are these musical stands fashioned that they will not perform if the cigars are bad.

AT the recent wedding of General Hooker, Chief Justice Chase, who was present, complimented the bride by saying to the General that he had just made the greatest conquest of the war.

THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE

[illegible] by the declaration [illegible] every man has the right to worship God according to the dictates of his own conscience, and government practices the utmost tolerance towards all religious denominations. From the stern, unyielding, iron clad faith of the Puritan Fathers, down to the mystic symbols of heathen mythology, all creeds, systems, faiths are entitled to, and do receive the equal protection of the law. The ignorant worshipers who bow in superstitious reverence before their senseless Idols in the Chinese Pagodas of San Francisco, are politically, as free from persecution as those who in the evangelical church of enlightened New England, listen to the glad tidings wafted from the cross of Calvary proclaiming "glory and peace to the world."

Church and State, thanks to the so called "intolerance" of our Heaven-fearing ancestors, are separate. No man can be persecuted for opinion's sake. To his God, and to him alone, is he answerable for the faith that is in him. Our Government from the first has recognized this broad maxim. The history of our nationality affords no example in contrary. No man living can produce one. How senseless, how puling, then, this cry of persecution; this constant whining to be let alone; as if the United States Government cared one iota whether the people of Utah are Mormons, Baptists, Methodists, Jews or Pagans. All the Government asks is that this people obey its laws; that the enactments of Congress shall be as effectual in Utah as in Idaho, or as in either of the states or territories. Is this unreasonable? Is it persecution?

To a calm thoughtful unprejudiced mind, the arrogant presumption with which a community of aliens, refugees from the sometimes wholesome tyranny of despotic government of the old world settle here on American soil and raise the standard of opposition to the equal laws of the land, is sublimely ridiculous. Emigrants from Great Britain, Pilgrims from Denmark and Sweden, not yet alienated from their native land, with no claims to citizenship here, presuming to dictate to the United States its policy towards one of its territories! Nay worse than that, living in violation of its laws, and arming and organizing with the avowed purpose of open resistance!

We wonder, sometimes, whether the mass of the people of Utah ever think of the ridiculous position in which the placed them? Do they for a moment imagine that Utah is potent to successfully resist the General Government?—A third of the States combined tried it and failed. Are they so fanatical as to believe that Divine Providence will ordain some miraculous interposition in their behalf? Let them remember that the prophecies of their leader, outside of his own power as a man to fulfil, have always proven false. (It is true that no stone has been left to mark the spot where fell the Mountain Meadow victims,—but the promised 'year of famine' did not come, and flour sells for something less than twenty-five dollars per hundred!") Or have they, indeed, sold their birth-right of individuality for a mess of polygamous pottage and become the mere tools their leaders would have them be, rendering a blind, unthinking obedience to the 'counsel' of their self-constituted lords and masters? Alas for human nature that can be so easily duped! Alas for human mind that dares not think for itself!

Seriously for a moment, who is this demi-god whose simple wish is higher law than the statutes of his country? Who is this reformer of the scriptures who gives a new commandment unto you, refusing to render unto Cæsar the things that are Cæsar's and unto God the things that are God's? Who is he that calls you from the east, west, north and south to worship at his shrine, and taxes you a tithe of all your possessions for the privilege? Who is he before whom you bow and tremble, forgetful of Him who, amid the thunders of Sinai said "Thou shalt have no other God before me?" The richest man in America! The heaviest depositor in the Bank of England! A theater owner in Salt Lake City! The proprietor of a liquor bar and a billiard saloon in the heart of this "New Jerusalem!" All well enough, it may be, for a financier, for one who is merely a shrewd business man. But for a Prophet of the Most High—a Messenger of the only true faith, one who claims authority direct from the God-head to annul the teachings of the meek and lowly Jesus, it is a blasphemous record which he who runs may read, and learn how very high this "Prophet's" aspirations rise!

True, there is no crime, neither is poverty meritorious; yet, one who spake as never man spake said "lay not up for yourself treasures upon earth, for where your treasure is there will your heart be also." "Ye cannot serve God and mammon." What say you, residents of Utah, followers of the "New dispensation," you who have forsaken the faith of your fathers for the addenda to the revelations of Joseph Smith? Was the founder of Christianity false? and is the "Governor, President, Prophet" true? Human credulity is entitled to much

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

Our eastern exchanges, received here yesterday, contain the Message of the President of the United States to the Senate and House of Congress, at the commencement of the first session of the thirty-ninth Congress. We re publish below the portions which relate to subjects which afford the greater interest, general [illegible] to our scope of readers through these Territories. The portions [illegible] which we could not find room to insert respectively to Freedmen's Bureau, Reconstruction, Revenue, Slavery, and such general subjects, of which you all are pretty thoroughly conversant, on the President's views, already. The Message seems to be a frank, direct and patriotic production, moderate in tone and clear in facts and arguments. It is a smoothly written State paper, giving an encouraging exhibit of affairs, and must commend itself as statesmanlike to every considerate, consistent reader. In brief, the Presidential formula is this: The supremacy of the nation, the rights of the States and the rights of persons; the two former as the means, and the latter as the end, of our entire economy and developement.

FELLOW CITIZENS OF THE SENATE AND HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES:—

To express gratitude to God, in the name of the people, for the preservation of the United States, is my first duty in addressing you. Our thoughts next revert to the death of the late President, by an act of parricidal treason. The grief of the nation is still fresh; it finds some solace in the consideration that he lived to enjoy the highest proof of its confidence by entering on the renewed term of the Chief Magistracy, to which he had been elected; that he brought the civil war substantially to a close; that his loss was deplored in all parts of the Union; and that foreign nations have rendered justice to his memory. His removal cast upon me a heavier weight of cares than ever devolved upon any one of his predecessors. To fulfil my trust I need the support and confidence of all who are associated with me in the various departments of government, and the support and confidence of the people. There is but one way in which I can hope to win their necessary aid; it is by laboring faithfully to carry out the principles which guided my conduct, and their application to the present state of affairs. I well aware that the efficiency of my labors will, in a great measure, depend on your and their undivided approbation.

THE PERPETUITY OF THE UNION.

The Union of the United States of America was intended by its authors to last as long as the States themselves shall last. "The Union shall be perpetual" are the words of the confederation. 'To form a more perfect Union,' by an ordinance of the people of the United States, is the declared purpose of the constitution. The hand of Divine Providence was never more plainly visible in the affairs of men than in the framing and the adopting of that instrument. It is, beyond comparison, the greatest event in American history, and indeed is it not, of all events in modern times, the most pregnant with consequences for every people on earth? The members of the convention which prepared it brought to their work the experience of the confederation, of their several States, and of other republican governments, old and new; but they needed and they obtained a wisdom superior to experience. And when for its validity it required the approval of a people that occupied a large part of a continent and acted separately in many distinct conventions, what is more wonderful than that, after earnest contention and long discussion, all feelings and all opinions were ultimately drawn in one way to its support?

THE INTERIOR DEPARTMENT.

The report of the Secretary of the Interior explains the condition of the public lands, the transactions of the Patent Office and the Pension Bureau, the management of our Indian affairs, the progress made in the construction of the Pacific Railroad, and furnishes information in reference to matters of local interest in the District of Columbia. It also presents evidence of the successful operation of the Homestead Act, under the provisions of which 1,160,531 acres of the public lands were entered during the last fiscal year—more than one fourth of the whole numbers of acres sold or otherwise disposed of during that period. It is estimated that the receipts derived from this source are sufficient to cover the expenses incident to the survey and disposals of the lands entered under this Act, and that payments in cash to the extent of from forty to fifty per cent. will be made by settlers who may thus at any time acquire title before the expiration of the period at which it would otherwise vest. The homestead policy was established only after long and earnest resistance; experience proves its wisdom. The lands, in the hands of industrious settlers, whose labor creates wealth and contributes to the public resources, are worth more to the United States than if they had been reserved as a solitude for future purchasers.

PENSIONS.

The lamentable events of the last four years, and the sacrifices made by the gallant men of our Army and Navy, have swelled the records of the pension bureau to an unprecedented extent. On the 30th day of June last, the total number of pensions was 85,986, requiring for their annual pay, exclusive of expenses, the sum of $5,028,415. The number of applications that have been allowed since that date will require a large increase of this amount for the next fiscal year. The means for the payment of the pensions, the [illegible] and the [illegible] children made fatherless in the efforts to preserve our national existence.

WAR DEPARTMENT.

In the report of the Secretary of War, a general summary of the military campaigns of 1864 and 1865, ending in the suppression of armed resistance to the national authority in the insurgent States, the operations of the general administrative Bureaus of the War Department during the past year are detailed, and an estimate made of the appropriations that will be required for military purposes [illegible] commencing the 30th day of June, 1866. The national military force on the 1st of May, 1856, numbered 1,000,516 men. It is proposed to reduce the military establishment to peace footing, comprehending fifty thousand troops, organized so as to admit of an enlargement by filling the ranks to eighty-two thousand six hundred, on the commencement of the army. The volunteer force has already been reduced by the discharge from service of over eight hundred thousand troops, and the department is proceeding rapidly in the work of further reduction. The war estimates are reduced from $516,840,131 to $33,814,461, which amount, in the opinion of the Department, is adequate for a peace establishment. The expenditures for retrenchment in each Bureau and branch of the service exhibit a diligent economy worthy of commendation. Reference is also made in the report to the necessity of providing for a military system, and to the propriety of making suitable provisions for wounded and disabled officers and soldiers.

THE MONROE DOCTRINE.

From the moment of our establishment of our free constitution, the civilized world has been convulsed by revolutions in the interest of democracy or of monarchy; but through all those revolutions the United States have wisely and firmly refused to become propagandists of republicanism. It is the only government suited to our condition; but we have never sought to impose it on others; and we have consistently followed the advice of Washington to recommend it only by the careful preservation and prudent use of the blessing. During all the intervening period the policy of European powers and of the United States has, on the whole been harmonious. Twice, indeed, rumors of the invasion of some parts of America, in the interest of monarchy have prevailed; twice my predecessors have had occasion to announce the views of the nation in respect to such interference. On both occasions the remonstrance of the United States was repeated from a deep conviction on the part of European Governments, that the system of non intervention and mutual propagandism was the true rule for the two hemispheres. Since these times we have advanced in wealth and power; but we retain the same purpose to leave the nations of Europe to choose their own dynasties and form their own systems of government. This consistent moderation may justly demand a corresponding moderation. We should regard it a great calamity to ourselves, to the cause of good government, and to the peace of the world, should any European Power challenge the American people as it were, to the defence of republicanism against foreign interference. We cannot foresee and are unwilling to consider what opportunities might present themselves, what combinations might offer to protect ourselves against designs inimical to our form of government. The United States desire to act in the future as they have ever acted heretofore; they never will be driven from that course but by the aggression of European Powers; and we rely on the wisdom and justice of those powers to respect the system of non interference which has so long been sanctioned by time, and which by its good results, has approved itself to both continents.

FRANCE AND MEXICO.

The correspondence between the United States and France, in reference to questions which have become subjects of discussion between the two Governments, will, at the proper time be laid before Congress.

POSTAL AFFAIRS.

The report of the Postmaster General presents an encouraging exhibit of the operations of the Post Office Department during the year. The revenues of the past year from the loyal States alone exceeds the maximum annual receipts from all the States previous to the rebellion, in the sum of $6,038,091; and the annual average increase of revenue during the last four years, compared with the revenues of the four years immediately preceding the rebellion, was $3,533 845. The revenues of the last fiscal year amounted to $14,556 158 and the expenditures to $13 964 7.8, leaving a surplus of receipts over expenditures of $861 430. Progress has been made in restoring the postal service in the Southern States. The views presented by the Postmaster General against the policy of granting subsidies to ocean mail steamship lines upon established routes and in favor of continuing the present system which limits the compensation for ocean service to the postage earnings are recommended to the careful consideration of Congress.

RELATIONS WITH GREAT BRITAIN.

Our domestic contest, now happily ended, has left some traces in our relations with one at least of the great maritime Powers. The formal recordance of belligerent rights to the insurgent States was unprecedented, and has not been justified by the issue. But in the events of neutrality pursued by the Powers which made that concession, there was a marked difference. The material of war for the insurgent States were furnished, in a great measure, from the workshops of Great Britain; and British ships manned by British subjects, and prepared for receiving British armaments, sailed from the ports of Great Britain to make war on American commerce, under the shelter of a commission from the insurgent States. These ships, having once escaped from British ports ever afterwards entered them in every part of the world, to refit, and so renew their depredations. The consequences of this conduct were most disastrous to the States then in rebellion, increasing their desolation and misery by the prolongation of our civil contest. It had moreover, the effect to give encouragement to drive the American flag from the sea, and to [illegible] shipping and our commerce [illegible] very Power wh[ich] subjects had created the necessity for such a change. These events took place before I was called to the administration of the government. [illegible] me to approve the proposal, already made, to submit the questions which had thus arisen between the countries to arbitration. These questions are of such [illegible] and have commanded the attention of the great Powers, and are so interwoven with the peace and interests of every one of them as to have insured an impartial decision. I regret to inform you that Great Britain declined the arbitrament, but, on the other hand, invited us to the formation of a joint commission to settle mutual claims between the two countries from which those [illegible] have been excluded. The proposition, in that very unsatisfactory form, has been declined.

The United States did not present the subject as an impeachment of the good faith of a [illegible] professing the most friendly dispositions, but as involving questions of public law, of which the settlement is essential to the peace of nations; and, though pecuniary reparation to their injured citizens would have followed incidentally on a decision against Great Britain, such compensation was not their primary object. They had a higher motive, and it was, in the interests of [illegible] justice, to establish important principles of international law. The correspondence will be placed before you. The ground on which the British Minister rests his justification is, [illegible] the municipal law of a nation and the domestic interpretations of that law are the measure of its duty as a neutral; and I feel bound to declare my opinion, before you and before the world, that that justification cannot be sustained before the tribunal of nations. At the same time I do not advise to any present attempt at redress by acts of legislation. For the future friendship between the two countries must rest on the basis of mutual justice.

OUR COUNTRY—CONCLUSION.

When, on the organization of our Government, under the Constitution, the President of the United States delivered his address to the two Houses of Congress, he said to them, and through them to the country and to mankind, that "the preservation of the sacred fire of liberty and the destiny of the republican model of government are justly considered as deeply, perhaps as finally staked on the experiment entrusted to the American people." And the House of Representatives answered Washington by the voice of Madison: "We adore the invisible hand which has led the American people through so many difficulties, to cherish a conscious responsibility for the destiny of American liberty." More than seventy-six years have glided away since those words were spoken; the United States have passed through severer trials than were foreseen; and now, at this new epoch in our existence as one nation, with our Union purified by sorrows, and strengthened by conflict, and established by the virtue of the people, the greatness of the occasion invites us once more to repeat, with solemnity, the pledges of our fathers to hold ourselves answerable before our fellow-men for the success of the republican form of government. Experience has proved its sufficiency in peace and in war; it has vindicated its authority through dangers and afflictions, and sudden and terrible emergencies, which would have crushed any system that had been less firmly fixed in the hearts of the people. At the inauguration of Washington, the foreign relations of the country were very few, and its trade was repressed by hostile regulations; now all the civilized nations of the globe welcome our commerce, and their Governments profess towards us amity. Then our country felt its way unhesitatingly along an untried path, with States so little bound together by rapid means of communication as to be hardly known to one another, and with historic traditions extending over very few years; now intercourse between the States is swift and intimate; the experience of centuries has been crowded into a few generations, and has created an intense, indestructible nationality. Then our jurisdiction did not reach beyond the inconvenient boundaries of the territory which had achieved independence; now, (through cessions of lands, first colonized by Spain and France,) the country has acquired a more complete character, and has for its natural limits the chain of Lakes, the Gulf of Mexico, and in the east and west the two great oceans. Other nations were wasted by civil wars for ages before they could establish for themselves the necessary degree of unity; the latent conviction that our form of government is the best ever known to the world, has enabled us to emerge from civil war within four years, with a complete vindication of the constitutional authority of the General Government, and with our local liberties and State institutions unimpaired.

The throngs of emigrants that crowd our shores are witnesses of the confidence of all peoples in our permanence. Here is the great land of free labor, where industry is blessed with unexampled rewards, and the bread of the workingman is sweetened by the consciousness that the cause of the country "is his own cause, his own dignity." Here every one enjoys the use of his faculties and the choice of activity as a natural right. Here, under the combined influence of a fruitful soil, genial climes, and happy institutions, population has increased fifteen fold within a century.—Here, through the easy development of boundless resources, wealth has increased with two-fold greater rapidity than numbers, so that we have become secure against the financial vicissitudes of other countries, and, alike in business and in opinion, are self-centered and independent. Here more and more care is given to provide education for every one born on our soil. Here religion, released from political connection with the civil government, refuses to subserve the craft of statesmen, and becomes, in its independence, the spiritual life of the republic.—Here toleration is extended to every opinion, and in the quiet certainty that truth only needs a fair field to secure the victory. Here the human mind goes forth unshackled in the pursuit of science, to collect stores of knowledge and acquire an ever-increasing mastery over the forces of nature. Here the national domain is offered and held in millions of separate freeholds, so that our fellow-citizens, beyond the occupants of any other part of the earth, constitute in reality a people. Here exists the democratic form of government, and that form of government, by the confession of European statesmen, "gives a power of which no other form is capable, because it incorporates every man with the State, and arouses everything that belongs to the soul."

Where, in past history, does a parallel exist to the public happiness which is within the reach of the people of the United States? Where, in any part of the globe, can institutions be found so suited to their habits or so entitled to their love as their own Constitution?—Every one of them, then, in whatever part of the land he has had his home, must wish its perpetuity. Who of them will not acknowledge, in the words of Washington, that every step by which the United States have advanced to the character of an independent nation seems to have been distinguished by some token of Providential agency? Who will not join with me in the prayer, that the invisible hand which has led us through the clouds that gloomed around our path, will so guide us onward to a perfect restoration of fraternal affection, that we of this day may be able to transmit our great inheritance, of State Governments in all their rights of the General Government in its whole constitutional vigor, to our posterity, and they to theirs through countless generations?

ANDREW JOHNSON.

Washington, Dec. 4, 1865.

BY PACIFIC TELEGRAPH.

[SPECIAL TO THE DAILY UNION VEDETTE.]

GENERAL NEWS.

Chicago, Dec. 30.

The special says, the bill to revive the grade of General, which was introduced in the House by Washburne, of Illinois, was prepared with the knowledge and concurrence of Gen. Grant. The Government obtained possession of Senator Yulee's letter, written January, 1861, in which he revealed the conspiracy on foot among southern congressmen who in secret caucus resolved that the southern States should be urged on to secession, while representations should hold the States until March 4th, following. Several members of joint reconstruction Committee have gone to various points South to find the pulse of the southern people.

New York, Dec 30.

The Etna and America sailed for Liverpool to-day, taking two hundred and ninety thousand dollars in specie. A private telegram from Morehead City, North Carolina, yesterday, says Steamer Coulin for New York, was struck at Cape Lookout on the night of the 28th, and went to pieces. Fifty four persons on board. The Captain and thirteen men were saved, the rest lost. The Steamer is a total wreck.

The Tribune's Paris correspondent says, Gen Scofield remains in Paris. There can be no doubt he is here on highly important business although he may have no written instructions.

St. Louis, Dec 30.

Recent reports of suffering on the plains are confirmed. Seventy soldiers of the 17th Infantry and thirty of the 27th Wisconsin, were so badly frozen that they have to be left in the hospital. The roads are blocked with snow beyond Ft. Kearney. The Legislature of Colorado adjourned, subject to the call of the Governor after ratifying the constitution amendment 36 to 1.

New York, Dec. 30.

The Commercial's Washington special says, Commodore Sanbrick will be president of the Court martial for the trial of Raphael Semmes.

A communication was handed to the Board of Aldermen this morning, from A. B. Bradford, late public administrator, stating his annual report for sixty-five would show a deficient of forty thousand dollars in that office. It is considered this amount has been improperly used by him while holding office and lost in stock speculations in Wall Street. He says he has assigned all his effects to his mother, with the property of his wife to a trustee, to pay first his bondsmen and then to be paid by the City towards the liquidation of the deficiency over the Board.

Mr. Edward B. Ketchum to-day was arraigned in the court of General Sessions and was there sentenced by Recorder Hoffman to be confined in the State prison for four and a half years. The prisoner entered the court room accompanied by his father and three brothers. His face was deathly pale but he exhibited no trepidation though his features showed he has endured much mental suffering. His father's manifestation of grief was intense, and his brothers were visibly affected. The court room was crowded with speculators. When the Clerk of the court asked "what have you now to say why judgment should not be pronounced against you?" Ketchum replied in a full voice. "Nothing." The Recorder then passed sentence.

The Post's Washington special says, a strong military force has been sent by Gen. Augur to Alexandria, to prevent any outbreak on New Year's day. A majority of the new committee on banking and currency is known to agree with Comptroller Clarke, in opposing any further inflation of the currency.

New York, Dec. 31.

John B. Haskin to whom Judge Bernard referred claim of Charles Devlin against city, for a hundred and eight thousand dollars with interest from first November fifty-six, for work alleged to have been done on the streets of this city, made the report in favor of the city.

Wooster, Mass., Dec. 30.

The inquest on the bodies of Artemus Ward and wife, found dead at their residence, Friday morning, resulted in a verdict of "died from inhaling coal gas."

New York, Dec. 30

The Herald's Fort Monroe correspondent says, Mrs. Clay arrived here on Thursday, and was soon after admitted to an interview with her husband in his prison. She was surprised to find Clay in good health and his confinement not appearing to have injuriously affected him.

LEFT FOR THE EAST.—Our young friend Sol Siegel left for the States by Monday's coach to make extensive purchases for the early spring and summer trade, clothing and furnishing goods. The firm of Siegel & Co. are doing a driving business at both of their stores in this city.

PERSONAL.—Wm. Nowlan, Esq. of the [illegible] firm of Nowlan & Weary, Virginia City, Montana, arrived here by the last northern coach en route to Denver and the east. He is more than ever eloquent on Montana's rich mineral resources and agricultural advantages as well. Few more sagacious business men and tell his reporters can be conversed with on Montana matters by easterners, than Mr. Nowlan. We recommend him to the consideration of our editorial friends at the far East.

NEW GOODS! NEW GOODS!—The city and country trade is directed to the new advertisement of Mr W. H. Baird, who is now opening at C. H. Ingram's late stand, 2d door south of Scott, Kerr & Co's Bank, a superior stock of staple dry goods, clothing, boots and shoes, hats and caps, notions &c., as well as a splendid assortment of staple and fancy groceries, coal oil, &c., at wholesale and retail. Flour, grain and produce taken at highest market price. Give the new store a call.

NEW YEAR'S DAY, with all its wonted, varied pleasures, passed away quite joyously in Salt Lake City. The streets from "early morn till dusky eve" were merry with the music of the sleigh bells. Everybody and his wife or wives were having a "happy New Year" in their chosen style. A number of the gracious "gentile" ladies kept "open house," entertaining their "dear five hundred friends" with sumptuous boards and courteous smiles. At some of these said places the "side-boards" were, most "spacious"—as Judge Lawrence calls it. The Camp Douglas Band drove through the streets in a ten mule turn-out, discoursing gala music and serenading, among other institutions of their choice this veritable VEDETTE establishment. Though stores and "bars" were closed, the vino and aguardiente was on draft at divers places, yet no unpleasant affairs ensued throughout the day or evening.

RICH GOLD SPECIMENS.—Mr. Wm. D. Brown, the fortunate prospector and proprietor of the unequaled "Uncle Sam" gold mine or lode, situated four miles from Helena, Montana Territory, arrived here by last coach on his way to the States to purchase a quartz mill and return with it early in the spring. He showed us scores and scores (a bushel basket full, at least,) of the very richest, rarest chunks of gold-bearing quartz, with the gold all over it and in it, which we ever saw in any country. They were taken out of crevices and from the common quartz vein in his mine, from eight to thirty feet down. Space to day debars us from particular descriptions of the different styles and classes of these specimens, and regarding the grand result of his devotion to the discovery of precious metals for the past few years. Mr. Brown will water the eyes of Wall street men by exhibiting these specimens, the pure gold in which, if extracted, must nett ten thousand dollars. Though a young gentleman of scarce twenty one, he has made himself a millionaire in Montana, after all his ups and downs, as prospector in Washoe and the West. Undoubtedly he has struck the "biggest thing in the mountains," as any one will say when they see his gold quartz samples.

The Past, the Past! ah, whither has it fled?
How swiftly have the transient moments sped;
The days and months seem like a meteor's gleam,
They passed as quickly as a pleasant dream.
And e'en long years seem short since they have passed.
Oh! tell me, whither have they fled so fast.
The Past has gone; 'twill never more return,
And if its hours have been misspent, then learn
In future to improve the hours that glide
So swiftly down Time's all engulfing tide;
Improve each moment better than the last.
Then when the busy scenes of life are past,
No sad reflections will to mind present,
[illegible] wasted or the hours misspent.
